

Thimble Slide Announces Big Reseller Rewards for Final Kickstarter Week

Reseller pledges will assure early retail advantage for a select few

LOS ANGELES, CA – September 21, 2015 – (GuitarPR) – Thimble Slide, the creator of the patented, size-adjustable guitar mini-slide, has created an innovative array of Reseller Rewards as they enter the final week of their Kickstarter funding drive. Resellers who pledge their support by end-of-day September 25, 2015, will not only receive retail-ready clamshell packaged inventory of Thimble Slides, but a head start advantage in the market – selling the slide ahead of distribution.

The Thimble Slide is a new kind of guitar slide. It allows the wearer to both slide when they want yet still fret the strings when they need to; a game-changing breakthrough in slides. The Thimble Slide has been manufactured by hand in backlogged, limited quantities for nearly three years. The Kickstarter funding program will propel the product's distribution into the worldwide market with the addition of automated machining of the slides. Manufacturing will take place in the U.S and the process is ready to roll.

While guitar players are encouraged to participate in the Kickstarter to receive their own slides, guitar-related resellers can choose rewards packages that include inventory from 6 to 500 slides in various sizes. Slides will ship in November, 2015, just in time for the holiday shopping season.

According to rock guitarist Cole Coleman, who developed and patented the product, “This is an entirely new class of guitar slides and it represents a unique line of products for us. It's a valuable tool for any guitar player to have and in time should become the standard guitar slide.”

Resellers, as well as players can take advantage of and profit from their Kickstarter rewards packages. But they must hurry as the program ends Friday, September 25 at 11pm PDT.
