

Conklin Guitars' Time Capsule Celebrates 30 Years of Magnificence

SPRINGFIELD, MO – April 8, 2015 – (GuitarPR) – Conklin Guitars and Basses is celebrating 30 years in business with a retrospective look back at three decades of magnificent custom instruments.

Conklin has become famous for pushing the limits and extending the boundaries of traditional thinking regarding electric guitars and basses since 1984 and has created a stunning “time capsule” on their website that displays a vibrant visual history of some of their greatest works.

While Conklin Guitars and Basses has become known for its many unique creations and exclusive innovations over the years, nothing sets them apart from the pack quite like their spectacular “Melted Top” instruments. The process of making Melted Tops is a radical departure from the standard book-matched top (i.e. figured Maple tops) seen on so many guitar manufacturer’s products. These and many other original creations are on display now in the Conklin Time Capsule.

Founder Bill Conklin explains the company’s underlying philosophy, “We design our instruments so that each component or ingredient becomes an integral part of the completed piece. We build each instrument with the utmost pride and strive for perfection at every stage of the project. We live our lives, treat our customers, and base our principles on sound morals, honesty and sincerity.”

The Conklin Time Capsule is on display permanently and can be viewed at http://conklinguitars.com/time_capsule.html.
