About the JIL One Guitar

Each JIL One is made from one piece of Honduran mahogany which has been seasoned at the bottom of the Belize River for at least 150 years. There is no neck joint at all. No bolted on neck, no glued on neck, just one continuous piece of incredible wood carefully bonded to a titanium chassis which extends from the headstock to the strap button. With specially designed component hardware of titanium, tungsten carbide frets and so much more, the JIL One is like no other guitar on the planet.
