

Previously Unreleased 1975 Recordings by Ted Greene Now Available

18 Tracks from the Legendary Guitarist Recorded at a Private Event

LOS ANGELES, CA – June 6, 2016 – (GuitarPR) – TedGreene.com, the official archive site of legendary guitarist, Ted Greene, has announced the posting of previously unreleased recordings by Ted in 1975. The collection of 18 tracks was recorded at a private event and is now available for download.

In the spirit of Ted, the downloads are free and include both mp3 and WAV files of all 18 tracks – over 90 minutes of music. The site, which has been supported by donations for over 10 years following Ted's untimely death in 2005, asks for a minimum donation of $15 to help keep the site up and running.

Background and more information about the recordings and the event is available on the June Ted Greene Newsletter page at: <http://TedGreene.com/news>.

The tracks are available for listening and download at:

About Ted Greene

Ted Greene is renowned worldwide as the author of “Chord Chemistry,” one of the most in-depth studies of chord harmony and theory ever published for guitar. Ted was also a brilliant, innovative and diverse guitarist capable of playing dazzling solos from jazz to neo-Baroque improvisation. Yet his chosen and most beloved path was as a teacher. He was highly sought out for his insightful and instinctive gifts in this area. As a testimony to his teaching abilities, for many years there remained a long list of guitarists waiting for an opening in his schedule.
